User Manual

Study Slug

Study Slug requires a UCSC email and was created to run on a Android device.

Installation

- Android Studio is required to install and run Study Slug.
- Once downloaded, download the Study Slug base from GitHub:
  - https://github.com/pcwilcox/studyslug
- Import Study Slug into Android Studio by opening android-app from the import menu.
- Run a Gradle build.
- Using an Android Device, enable USB Debugging via the Develop Options.
- Next, click the ▶ and a window will prompt you to select a Deployment Target.
- Choose your device and the app should open up after.

Splash Activity

- Upon launching Study Slug from your device, click Sign In using Google.
- Google Sign-In will check your email to ensure that it belongs to ucsc.edu domain.
- Once authorized, Splash Activity will bring you to Find People

Find People

- Upon landing on Find People, there is a drop down that contains the courses that you have added in-app. To add courses, you can hit the Add button to the left.

- After selecting one of your courses, hitting the search button at the bottom of the screen will prompt a list of other students who share that particular course with you.
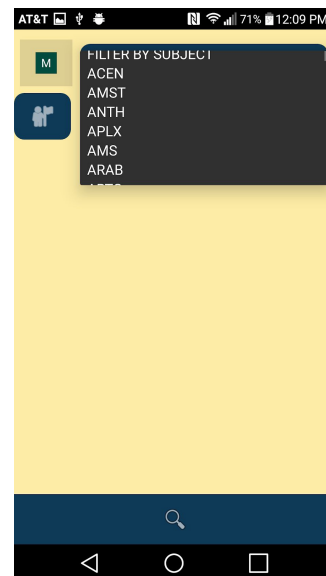

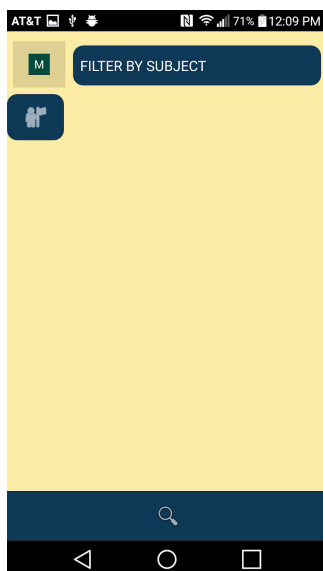

- From this list, you can hit the mail symbol next to the corresponding user's name to auto a generate an email for you which you can further edit and send.

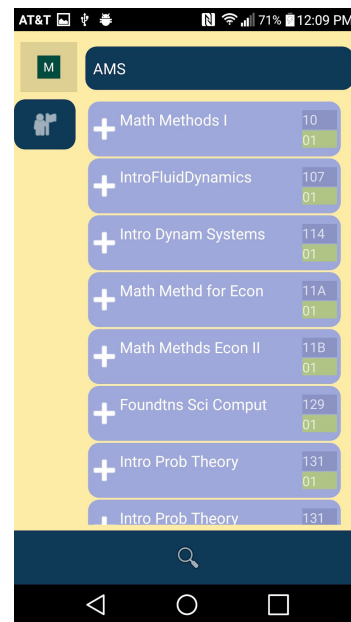

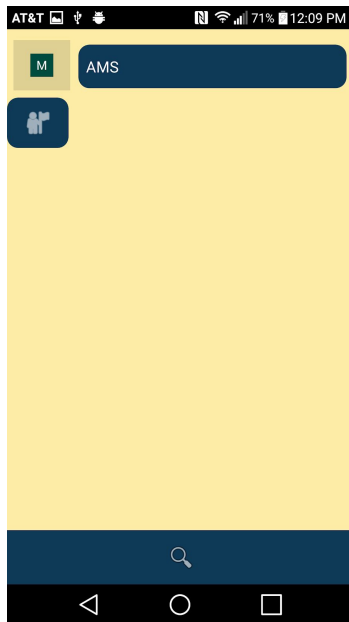

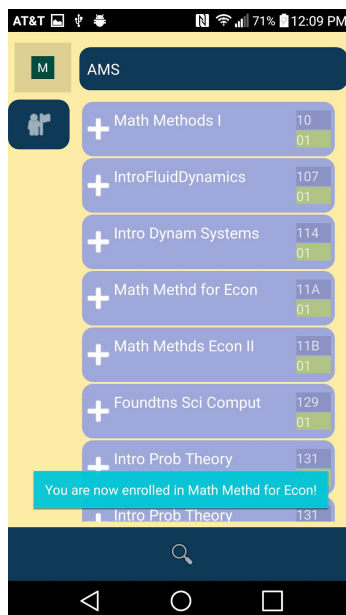

Add Courses
- Add Courses also has a drop-down menu that lists the departments of all courses offered during the current quarter at UCSC. To find people to study with, you can hit the search button to the left.

● Upon choosing a department, a list of all courses offered within that department will be displayed.

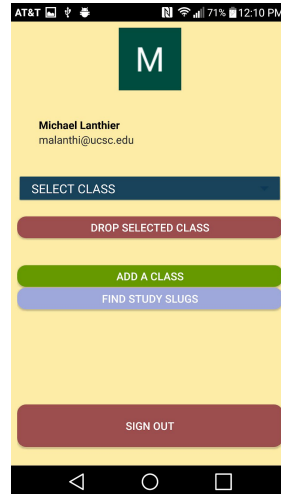

● From there, upon selecting a course, it will be added to your entry in our database.
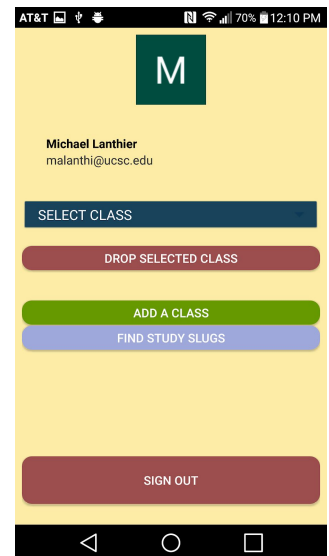

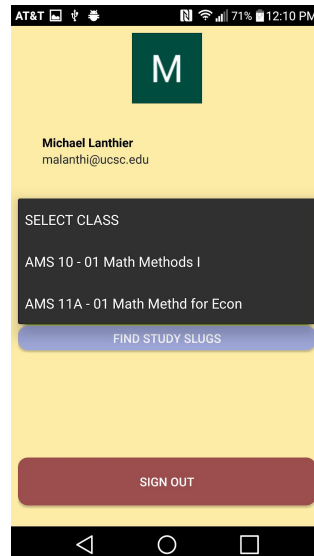

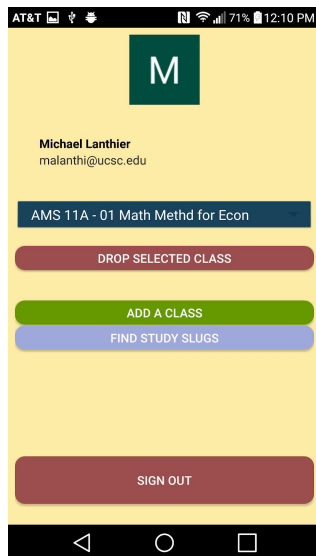

Profile

- Your profile page is accessible from our two main pages. To access it, you can simply click your user image (which is from your Google account).

- On this page, you have the ability to look up the courses you have added and drop them, find more classes, find people to study with, and sign out of your profile.
- To drop a class, look through the drop-down menu and select a class then hit "Drop Selected Class"

- To add more courses to study for, hit "Add a class".
- To find more people to study with, hit "Find Study Slugs"
- To return to the page you were previously on, you can simply click the back button.
- Lastly, to sign out of your Study Slug account, hit the "Sign Out" button.